

Argent at a Glance

Overview

Argent Trading Inc. is a global corporate trading firm that enables large companies to restore value to under-performing assets. Argent purchases problem assets using its proprietary trading currency, Asset Purchase Credits (APC's). Companies use their APC's toward the purchase of a wide range of budgeted goods and services including media, manufacturing materials, capital equipment, packaging, transportation and sales and administrative expenses.

Experience

Argent has the longest history of any trading firm in the U.S., having served important clients for more than fifty years. In addition to its expertise across all forms of media, the company pioneered the use of trading credits for non-media expenditures as a way to give clients the greatest value and flexibility in each transaction, and has closed transactions valued in excess of $3 billion.

The Argent Difference

Clients working with Argent receive highly personalized, individual attention from senior management executives. Argent leverages its experience to offer clients the widest possible range of credit reinvestment options. Unlike other trading companies, Argent secures trades based on client objectives; Argent never tries to fulfill trades with inventory it happens to own.

Worldwide Capabilities

Argent maintains offices in 16 countries around the world to provide clients with local expertise in every major region of the globe. This worldwide network allows Argent to remarket goods and services, within strict, client-driven guidelines virtually anywhere necessary.

Financial Strength

Argent is majority owned by two prominent private investment groups, Argyros Trading International and Hilco Trading, assuring financial strength and long-term stability.
